OSHA to hold meeting of the National Advisory Committee on Occupational Safety and Health

WASHINGTON – The Occupational Safety and Health Administration will hold a meeting of the National Advisory Committee on Occupational Safety and Health Feb. 11-12, 2014, in Washington, D.C. A work group meeting will be held on Feb. 11 and the full committee will meet on Feb. 12.

NACOSH (<https://www.osha.gov/dop/nacosh/nacosh.html>) was established under the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970 to advise the secretaries of labor and health and human services on occupational safety and health programs and policies.

The tentative agenda includes remarks from Dr. David Michaels, assistant secretary of labor for occupational safety and health and Dr. John Howard, director, National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health, NACOSH Work Group report and consideration of work group recommendations and public comments.

The full committee meeting will be held from 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. in Room C-5320-6, U.S. Department of Labor, 200 Constitution Ave., N.W., Washington, DC 20210. Some committee members will participate by teleconference. The work group will meet from 1-4 p.m., Feb. 11 in Room C-5320-6.

NACOSH meetings are open to the public. Individuals may submit comments and requests to speak at <http://www.regulations.gov>, the Federal eRulemaking Portal. Submissions may also be sent by mail or facsimile. See the Federal Register notice (http://www.ofr.gov/%28X%281%29S%285kku3kgtz2rzc0w0d2r2hwau%29%29/OFRUpload/OFRData/2014-00677_P1.pdf)* for details. Comments must be submitted by Feb. 4, 2014.

Under the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970, employers are responsible for providing safe and healthful workplaces for their employees. OSHA's role is to ensure these conditions for America's working men and women by setting and enforcing standards, and providing training, education and assistance. For more information, visit <http://www.osha.gov>.
