Re: Request for comments on OSHA's proposed rulemaking for Construction Illumination (Docket No. OSHA-2025-0040)

Dear Acting Assistant Secretary Laihow,

The American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations (AFL-CIO) requests a 60 day extension of the comment periods and informal rulemaking hearings for the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) notice of proposed rulemaking (NPRM) regarding Construction Illumination.

Additional time is crucial for ensuring our membership in their respective workplaces is adequately represented. The AFL-CIO's membership is expansive and diverse, with many directly affected by the proposed rules. We represent 63 affiliated labor unions with nearly 15 million working people across a wide variety of industries in health care, construction, manufacturing, fire service, emergency response, transportation, education, entertainment, athletics, and many other sectors. We have more than 50 years of experience commenting on OSHA rulemakings.

Additional time is crucial to make it through the volume of information noticed and requested by the agency. On or after July 1, 2025, OSHA alone issued dozens of deregulatory actions, many with comment deadlines of September 2, 2025, right after the nation's Labor Day holiday and summer holiday schedules. We also are reviewing and commenting on proposals from many different federal agencies under the same time frame, including three dozen deregulatory actions from other agencies in the U.S. Department of Labor, some with comment deadlines as early as July 31, 2025.

Also, without the opportunity for submission, review and comment through the Advisory Committee on Construction Safety and Health, stakeholders have not had an adequate length of time to preliminarily review and digest the construction-related actions before release for public comment.

Thank you for your consideration of this important request.

Sincerely,
