AIHA[®] Launches New Consumer Website

AIHce 2012 Conference is June 16-21 in Indianapolis, IN

FAIRFAX, VA, (December 19, 2011) — The American Industrial Hygiene Association[®] (AIHA) recently launched a new consumer-focused website, allowing the general public to access resources and information about industrial hygiene and related fields.

The website, launched on December 15th, is a consumer guide to the profession, careers and matters of concern to industrial hygienists. The new site provides information about day-to-day responsibilities of an industrial hygienist, what it takes to achieve an industrial hygiene career, and the important issues and challenges an IH professional routinely addresses.

The website www.workerhealthandsafety.com will be constantly updated with industry news and information and will be connected to www.aiha.org. Additionally, users will find helpful links to EPA, NIOSH, and state OSHA programs.

To access the new website, please visit www.workerhealthandsafety.com. For more information about the new site, please contact Connie Paradise at cparadise@aiha.org.

Founded in 1939, the American Industrial Hygiene Association (AIHA) is the premier association of occupational and environmental health and safety professionals. AIHA's 10,077 members play a crucial role on the front line of worker health and safety every day. Members represent a cross-section of industry, private business, labor, government and academia.
